<sup>1</sup> Plaintiff should be aware that he has no legal right to an attorney in this civil action, and that the Court is not appointing an attorney to represent him. Rather, the Court is asking an attorney to review Plaintiff’s case. That attorney may exercise his/her discretion in determining whether to agree to represent Plaintiff in this action. The matter will remain in civil suspense and the Court will take no further action on this case until it gets a response from the Prisoner Civil Rights Panel regarding the review of Plaintiff’s case.
